CHICAGO, May 9.—Lieut. James Maney, recently acquitted of the charge of murdering Capt. Hedburg, has furnished Fort Sheridan with another sensation. The story current tonight is that since the shooting of Hedburg there has been much ill-feeling between Maney and Maj. Baldwin of the Seventh Cavalry. Maney at last called at Maj. Baldwir's headquarters for an explanation.

planation.
"I have called to see you, major," he said, "in regard to certain remark I have heard you have made about me in relation to the Hedburg affair."
"Yes," said the major, interroga-tively.

"Yes, sir," continued the lieutenant.
"I understand you have expressed the opinion that the killing of Hedburg was a cold-blooded murder and to have advised that I be ostracised by the officers of the post. Is that true?"

"Every word of it," was Maj. Baldwin's prompt reply, "and while you're here I'll just tell you to your face I think you were in bad luck when you were acquitted."

Some versions are that the lieutenant's right hand sought his hip-pocket think you were in bad luck when you were acquitted."

Some versions are that the lieutenant's right hand sought his hip-pocket in search of his gun, while others say that the lieutenant was not armed. In any event Baldwin landed with his right and followed up the blow with an enthusiasm that knocked the lieutenant in a heap. He was game, however, and, getting up, quickly landed upper-cuts with science and precision. But Maj. Baldwin was the better man and, after a short, sharp struggle, clinched with his adversary, choking him into submission and pitched him out of doors.

Lieut. Maney failed to materialize at inspection today and the story leaks out, despite the efforts of the officers to maintain secrecy, that he was found in close communication with raw beefsteak and bandages, but refused to talk about the affair. A possible courtmartial is hinted, but it is not thought that the lieutenant will prefer charges.

Congress Should Not Hear Coxey.

Senator Sherman Elucidates the Subject.

He Offered to Present the Former's Bills.

enator Allen Argues on His Special Committee Resolution-Tariff and Silver-House and the Naval Bill.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.
WASHINGTON, May 9.—SENATE.-

Coxey, Browne and Jones, convicted in the Police Court yesterday, were in the lobby of the Senate when it met today, anticipating a further airing of their case in connection with the Allen esolution.

On motion of Senator Gray of Delaware, a bill authorizing Rear-Admiral Walker and Surgeon J. Rufus Fryon of the navy to accept decorations from Venezuela for humane service to wounded Venezuelans in the war was passed; also a bill to authorize the crew of the life-saving station at Hog Island, Va., to accept medals from Spain for saving the life of the crew from a wrecked Spanish vessel. Senator Berry of Arkansas, allowed these bills to go through under pro-test. He insisted that nothing should test. He insisted that nothing should be permitted to interfere with the tariff bill and he said those who opposed as well as those who approved it, were anxious for action. The interminable delay was making people lose confidence in the Senate.

Senator Allen of Nebraska called up his resolution for the appointment of a special committee to investigate the police interference with the Coxey demonstration. Mr. Allen spoke with feeling. He had waited a week after the outrage was committed upon the Capitol grounds before introducing his resolution, he said, expecting one of the Senators from Ohio, Coxey's State, to take steps toward an investigation. Cdxey came from the Congress district formerly represented by Gov. McKinley.

"Are you not Mr. Coxey's counsel?" asked Senator Danlei of Virgina, interrupting Allen.

"No sir"

rupting Allen.

"No, sir."
"Has not Mr. Coxey full legal remedy if he has been injured in his rights?"
"I decline to be diverted from my line of thought," said Senator Allen, ine of thought," said Senator Paniel, "I rather sharply.

"But," persisted Senator Daniel, "I simply desired to question the propriety of dragging this matter into the Senate when Mr. Coxey has a remedy in court," Senator Allen made no response to Senator Allen made no response to Senator Dapiel's suggestion, but took occasion to reiterate his denial of the sympathy with the movement. All reports to the contrary were untrue. He had been called in consultation by Representatives Hudson and Pence on the rights of Coxey. He had subsequently gone into the Police Court to defend him. When Senator Allen sat down Senator Sherman arose to reply. The Senator from Nebraska, he said, wanted the Senate to review a case wanted the Senate to review a case that had been tried in the Police Court that had been tried in the Police Court before a jury of twelve honest men, a case in which the defendants had the benefit of the services of the distinguished Senator from Nebraska. Should the business of the country be suspended to review a case that could be carried to the higher courts, where if mistakes were made, the pardoning power of the President could be invoked as a last resort. When this Coxey movement was first started a prominent citizen of Ohlo had come to him and asked if he would present Coxey's good roads petition. He replied he would. Moreover, he had told plied he would. Moreover, he had told this gentleman that if Coxey destred his bills introduced he would introduce them, although he had not a particle of sympathy for them. His reply had beeen carried to Coxey and the latter sent back word thanking him, but say-ing that he did not care to have him (Sherman) present them.

sent back word thanking him, but saying that he did not care to have him (Sherman) present them.

When Senator Sherman finished, the tariff bill was laid before the Senate. The Coxey resolution went over until tomorrow when Senator Teller and others will ask to be heard upon it.

Senator Aldrich took up the second amendment in the tariff bill, which is the words, "or withdrawn for consumption," the purpose being to include goods so withdrawn from bonded warehouses in the provisions applying in the bill to goods imported.

This precipitated a running discussion, in which Messrs. Jones of Arkansas, Chandler of New Hampshire. Vest of Missouri, Hale of Maine, Harris of Tennessee and Mills of Texas took part.

of Tennessee and Mills of Texas took part.

Senator Aldrich twitted Senator Mills by reading extracts from a speech by the latter, in which he had denounced, in the most severe terms, the system of specific duties, and, holding that for him to swallow the bill as amended, would mean a surrender of the principles of a lifetime.

Senator Mills replied in vigorous terms repelling the idea that he was in any way responsible for what Senator Aldrich has termed the Democratic surrender. The bill, as modified by the amendments introduced, had no resemblance to the Wilson bill. It ought to bear the name of Senator Gorman or Senator Brice. The bill was not a response to Democratic pledges. Nevertheless he would vote for it if it made a reduction only of 5 cents.

The pending amendment was then agreed to and Senator Lodge offered his amendment to impose double duties in the bill against Great Britain until that country should agree to an international ratio for the colnage of silver. Senator Stewart followed with a long free-silver speech and was followed by Senator Peffer.

Senator Teller did not believe this was the way to deal with the silver question. Every one knew that as long as Mr. Cleveland remained in the white House there was no hope of independent silver legislation. He was ready to do anything to force England to her knees. He did not believe the standing hat in hand awaiting England's pleasure. England would never go into a conference with us until she was compelled to do so. If he had the power he would absolutely prohibit the importation of English goods, until that country should submit to an international agreement. He did not think A Veteran of Two Wars.

CHICAGO, May 9.—M. M. Trumbull, a veteran of the Mexican and civil wars, died at his home here to-day.

senator and the debate, and say the amendment on the looke's remarks, cutting off Senator Dubois who desired to speak.

The amendment was laid on the table by 31 to 20, a strict party vote. The detailed vote laying the Lodge amendment on the table, was:

Yeas—Senators Allen, Bate, Berry, Blanchard, Brice, Caffery, Call, Cockrell, Coke, George, Gibson, Gorman, Gordon, Gray, Harris, Hunter, Jarvis, Jones, McLaurin, McPherson, Martin, Mills, Palmer, Pasco, Pugh, Ransom, Roach, Turpie, Vest, Walsh, White—31.

Nays—Senators Allison, Dolph, Dubois, Gallinger, Hale, Hansbrough, Hawley, Higgins, Hoar, Lodge, McMillan, Manderson, Perkins, Platt, Proctor, Shoup, Squire, Stewart, Teller, Washburn—total, 20.

The Democrats who did not vote were paired in favor of the motion. Senator Allen (Pop.) voted with the Democrats and announced Senator Kyle (Pop.) was paired with Mr. Morrill (Rep.) on all questions relating to the tariff. Senator Peffer was absent and no pair was announced for him. The vote of Senator Allen and the announcement of the pairs of Senator Kyle is taken to mean' these members will vote with the Democrats on the tariff bill.

Senator Teller offered a substitute for Senator Allen's resolution for an investigation of the Commonwealers' arrest and then, at 5:30 o'clock, the Senate went into executive session, just previous to adjournment today, followed up the favorable action of the morning by the Committee on Foreign Relations on the treaty, defining the limits of seal fishing in Russian waters, by ratifying it. There was no discussion of the treaty today, as no proposition was developed to it. The House bill granting to the Columbia Irrigation Company the right-of-way through the Yaquima Indian reservation was passed.

At 1.95 o'clock Mr. Cummings, in charge of the Naval Appropriation Bill, moved that the House go into committee of the whole to consider the bill. By agreement the debate was limited to seven hours, three and a half hours on each side. The House then went into committee of the whole.

Prior to going into committee of the whole, Mr. Springer, chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency, reported favorably his bill to suspend the tax of 10 per cent. on State bank issues during money stringencies, and gave notice that he would call up the bill for consideration at a week from today.

TACOMA (Wash.,) May 9.-A special the Ledger from North Yakima, 7:30 o'clock this evening between dep two deputies were shot.

The fight took place at North Yak ima, and Deputy Manshals Chidester and Jolly of Tacoma were shot, the former in the leg and the latter in the bowels. He is bleeding internally. Thirty shots were fired in the melec. Savage, Wcaver and McApee, all Section Committee the Comm attle Coxeyites, received flesh wounds from revolver shots. "Buck," a pock-marked Seattle Coxeyite, who was the leader of the crowd, had two fingers broken with a club.. Intense excite the result of a determination on the part of the Coxeyites not to leave a train which had been held there since

At 2 o'clock thirteen deputies attempted to take out the train, Chidester being in charge. The Industrials swarmed over the train and outnumbered the marshals. The latter gave up after two attempts to oust the army and steamed back to Yakima, two miles from the scene of the scuffle, and side-bracked the train. Ten deputies responded to Chidester's demand for responded to Chidester's demand for reinforcements, and twenty-five more went from Ellensburg. At 7 o'clock this evening the train backed to the bridge over the Yakima River, a mile from the town. Half the population followed. The Coxeyites boarded the train to the number of 150. Chidester says one of them attempted to set a brake. A deputy ordered him to stop. On his refusing the deputy pulled him away.

says one of them attempted to set a brake. A deputy ordered him to stop. On his refusing the deputy pulled him away.

The Coxeyites began clubbing the deputy and shooting commenced. Then the Coxeyites retreated, breaking a switch and piling rocks on the track, but afterwards removed them. When the fight began, stones were thrown at the engineer and fireman, attempting to dislodge them. The train backed into Selah Station after the fight, where it is now. Surgeon Hill has gone from Yakima to attend the wounded. Chidester was secretary of the Tacoma City Democratic Committee in the recent campaign. The Industrials in Yakima have been swearing all day that they would go out of the city on that train, fighting for the privilege if necessary. They were much incensed in the afternoon by a marshal clubbing a Coxeyite in the first scuffle. They threatened to lynch him.

Some citizens say some of the Coxeyites have been proclaiming that they had guns and did not propose to give them up. The Industrials deny this, and claim the marshals shot themselves. During the melee this evening several Industrials were slightly injured by being thrown from the train. "Adjt." Fitting of Seattle went to Yakima from Ellensburg this evening and demanded food and shelter for the army. The City Council granted leave to sleep in the City Hall tonight and food will probably be given them. Some sympathizers cheered the Coxeyites on in their fight.

Marshal Drake left here tonight at 11:10 o'clock for the scene. All along the line the Industrials are in an ugiy mood. Thirty Industrials left Ellensburg tonight to walk over the mountains to Wenatchee on the Great Northern, where they hope to get transportation to Spokane and possibly to St. Paul.

Labor today to speak on Representative McGann's resolution for the appointment of a joint committee to investigate the causes of the prevailing industrial depression. He presented a petition from the Commonweal Army that he and Browne be permitted to address the committee in behalf of the Coxey bills for the construction of good roads and the issuance of non-interest bearing bonds.

"There are," he said, "billions of dollars' worth of improvements throughout the country to be made, and millions of men to make them. There is but one thing in the way, and that is want of money. The passage of these two bills would set all men at work."

He asked for 99 per cent of the people the same privileges as enjoyed by the national bank class who alone are represented in Congress.

"Have you any showing to make or any proofs to offer that you represent 39 per cent. of the people?" asked Mr. Ryan of New York. "No," said Coxey, "I don't claim that."

that."

J. E. Dean, a member of the Executive Committee of the Farmers' Alliance, followed with a recital of the depressed condition of labor.

Representative Dunn of New Jersey asked Mr. Dean;

"Do you believe the American people have reached a stage where they want threats and coercion used against their legislatures by these moving bodies?"

"No," said Mr. Dean, "threats are not intended."

"Then," said Mr. Dunn, "what can be

"No," said Mr. Dean, "threats are not intended."

"Then," said Mr. Dunn, "what can be accomplished by these steps, equivalent to coercion?"

"You have a habit in Congress," said Dean, "of consigning petitions to pigeon-holes and waste-baskets. The object of Coxey was to present to you a petition that would be heard and seen."

When the committee was about to go into secret session, Coxey said: "We have thousands of petitions if we only have a chance to present them."

"We will give you a committee," said Chairman McGann, "to receive them."

Messrs. Coxey, Browne and their friends then withdrew to let the committee consider the resolutions. With Coxey and Browne were a group of Populists and Farmers' Alliance leaders, including Marion Butter, president of the National Farmers' Alliance Chairman Taubeneck and Secretary Turner of the People's Party Executive Committee. COXEY A NUISANCE. WASHINGTON, May 9.—The bra-trict Commissioners have decided that Coxey is maintaining a nuisance by Coxey is maintaining a nuisance by keeping his men in their camp, and have given him forty-eight hours to abate the nuisance. The action was laken on the advice of S. T. Thomas, attorney of the district, and as the result of a conference between the commissioners, Health Office Hammett and Chief of Police Moore today. The advisability of applying to the courts for an injunction against Coxey was considered, but the attorney said the proceedings were unnecessary, as he could be prosecuted in the Police Court for violating the health ordinances.

The forty-eight hours' notice dates from 2 o'clock. It is likely that Coxey can comply tomorrow by moving his camp from the square. He expressed his intention when the notice was served, and hinted that he might secure an abandoned baseball park near the Capitol, known as Capitol Park, where Congress could have oversight of the army.

Congress could have oversight of the army.

flotilla at noon bade good-by to Des Moines. Most of the boats in the fleet were fitted with oars or sails improvised from army blankets. "Commodore" Kelly expected to reach Runnell, twenty miles away, tonight.

Because of numerous sandbars the men were frequently compelled to wade and push the boats. They have provisions for several days, and the towns along the route are preparing to contribute liberally. "Prof." King led the flotilla on his aquatic bicycle, the start being witnessed by a large crowd, who cheered loudly.

The boats were soon strung along the river for five miles. One boat with ten Commonwealers and a number of Des Moines women and children was capsized, and all narrowly escaped drowning. Fully 2000 people straggled along the banks watching the flotilla. Kelly's army tonight is scattered along the Des Moines River from within four or five miles of Des Moines where the rear-guard is lingering more than three miles out by the river. They cannot reach the Mississippi in less than a week at the present rate. TYING UP THE TRAINS.

Sheriff Moses has been all the morning trying to raise a posse to capture Saunders and the army, but so far has not been able to secure more than forty men. The railroad authorities are in communication with Judge Hallett at Denver with regard to securing Federal aid.

At Ordway the water in the engine gave out, and they obtained a supply from a well, carrying it in their dinner pails and coffee cups.

Sanders's Industrials have got beyond Haswell, and are going East. Another engine has been ditched at Diston, 119 miles from Pueblo.

At 1 o'clock the Sanders crowd, with their runaway train, had reached Chivington, 126 miles east of Pueblo. They have gone around three ditched engines, and nothing has been done to stop them, though the ditched engines, and nothing has been done to stop them, though the ditched engines delayed them three or four hours. The company has a number of locomotives gathered along the line east of the Sanders crowd for use in reaching the fugitives. All the water-tanks are emptied, and this alone ought to prevent the Cripple Creek contingent from going far.

OMAHA, May 9.-A call was issued today for a meeting of the Populist State Central Committee at Lincoln May 18, to fix the date and place for holding the State convention. Chairman Deaver, in his call, says that it has been decided to call the convention at a time when the farmers can take a couple of weeks off, and the place se lected will be in the central part of the State. It is possible that the delegates beyond the railroads can go to the convention in wagons.

Each county was asked to transport its delegates in a body by the horse route, and each evening a stop will be made at important points, and political meetings will be held. Chairman Deaver is confident that the plan will result in the greatest political awaken-ing the Populists have ever experi-enced in Nebraska.

On board the steamer John Wilson was Rev. Ambon Arbeiter, a missionary, or route to Germany. He says that, so long as United States and British warships remain on the coust, the people of Bluefields would be safe from Nicaraguan persecution, but, should the ships be removed, or, under the treaty, should either country order the Nicaraguans out of the reservation, the worst is feared.

"I was assured," said Mr. Arbeiter, "by parties who could not be misinformed, that positive orders had been given the Nicaraguan soldiers to set fire do the town of Bluefields if they are compelled to evacuate it, no matter which country enforces the evacuation, or should England and America act together. The mystery surrounding the loss of the liftle schooner Mary Brown in Alaska waters and the murder of James O'Brien and his friends, has not yet been cleared up, but the friends of O'Brien are not idle, and they are confident now that they have a clew at last. Mrs. Hazelton, the dead man's sister, the plucky little woman who made the trip north alone and brought back evidence of her brother's murder, has many warm friends, who are aiding her to ferret out the tragedy, which occurred on the Mary Brown be fore the schooner was capsized. Thes friends are confident, in the first place that O'Brien was murdered. Ther are three jagged, irregular cuts in the dead man's vest and blood on the walstband of his trousers. All this tells a story of a desperate struggle.

Mrs. Hazelton came back to San Francisco with the impression that there had been a fight on board the schooner; that murder had followed, and that the survivors then were and that the survivors then were drowned. Now it is thought that the murderers have escaped and are at large. There was a man who had sworn to have Jimmy O'Brien's life. His name was Louis Sharp. O'Brien had been instrumental in sending him to San Quentin. He served his term in prison, was given a ticket for Alaska and has never been seen here since. O'Brien was manager of the Lynde and Haugh store at Sand Point in 1887 and had Sharp arrested for theft and secured his conviction. Before he could be deported from the Point to some Federal prison he made his escape, secured a pistol and went in search of O'Brien. An old man named Dingley encountered him and in an attempt to disarm him was shot and killed. Meeting O'Brien, Sharp shot him and left him for dead, but the wounded man managed to crawl to the shipping and eventually was brought to San Francisco, where he recovered, eventually was brought to San Francisco, where he recovered, Eventually Sharp was recaptured after terrorizing the Sand Point community, and was brought to San Francisco on the revenue cutter Richard Rush. A preliminary examination held by United States Commissioner Sawyer resulted in his being held for assault to murder, and he was sent to Sitka for trial. In the early part of 1889 he was convicted and sent to San Quentin for three years.

At San Quentin on all occasions he At San Quentin on all occasions he would speak of his trouble and curse O'Brien for making him a convict, winding up by swearing to kill O'Brien when he got out. He left San Quentin on August 7, 1891, and was given a ticket for Alaska. He was seen in Sitka in 1892, and it is now thought he was making for the north to reach O'Brien. The latter had been apprised of his danger. He was a very courageous fellow, and expressed himself as the heart of Sharp, although he O'Brien. The latter had been apprised of his danger. He was a very courage-ous fellow, and expressed himself as not being afraid of Sharp, although he admitted that he would not know him if he saw him. O'Brien's friends think that Sharp got a berth on the Mary Brown, knowing that his victim would return to San Francisco on board of, her. It seemed as if fate had decreed that poor O'Brien must sail to his death, for only a few weeks before the Mary Brown arrived at Sand Point he refused to come down by steamer.

There is still another story about the Mary Brown's cargo, it being claimed by some that the most of it consisted of Victoria oplum, which Capt. Brown was going to smuggle into San Francisco in the interest of himself and others. When the vessel left Victoria she cleared with only three men on her articles, captain, mate and one seaman. It was known that there were two or three others on board who were passengers. When the Mary Brown arrived at Sand Point these passengers were still on board, but they were said to be men who had deserted from sealers and who were working their passage to San Francisco.

A gentleman who has been looking up the wreek of the Brown is firmly convinced that the vessel took a contraband cargo out of Victoria. He says sage to San Francisco.

A gentleman who has been looking up the wreck of the Brown is firmly convinced that the vessel took a contraband cargo out of Victoria. He says the stuff may have been cached on one of the little islands on the way to Sand Point and picked up again after the vessel had cleared for San Francisco. Be this 'as it may, Indians found a number of oplum tins in the vicinity of the wreck. This gentleman has a theory to the effect that a portion of the crew learned that oplum was on board and resolved to steal the ship and steer for home, landing the cargo on the way or get it into San Francisco surreptitiously as the custom-house officials would not think of searching a vessel from Sand Point. Had Louis Sharp been one of the crew on the Mary Brown such a scheme would have suited him well. He showed his contempt for human life by his murder of Dingley and his assault on O'Brien.

It would seem that retribution overtook the mutineers and murderers, for the schooner was capsized and all hands were supposed to have drowned. The strangest part of this is that not a vestage of the longboat has been found. Hazleton offered a reward of $25 for the recovery of the boat or even a piece of its wreck. This amount to an Indian is a small fortune, and runners are scattered all along the coast in their search. They returned with the statement that the boat had disappeared. Had the boat had disappeared. Had the boat heen smashed, it is certain that wreckage from it would have washed ashore, or had it gone over with the schooner it would have drifted in shore, or had it gone over with the schooner it would have drifted in shore, or had it gone over with the schooner it would have drifted in shore, or had it gone over with the schooner it would have drifted in shore, or had it gone over with the schooner it would have drifted in shore. See firm conviction of O'Brien's frie is that the mutlneers saved themselves by means of the boat and when they came to realize the enormity of their crime they wrecked the Mary Br ated Press Leased-wire Service. WASHINGTON, May 9.—The President today submitted to the Senate the correspondence relative called for by Senator Gray's resolution of April 6. The correspondence is very voluminous, covering about 10,000 pages. In submitting it to the President Secretary Gresham has taken the opportunity to set out at length his conclusions as to the workings of the tripartite agreement. This letter of the Secretary is certain to give rise to much discussion and controversy.

A period of almost five years having elapsed since the conclusion of the single key. He once found his wife trying to open the trunk, but having severely reprimanded her he forgot the elapsed since the conclusion General Act of Berlin the prese severely reprimanded her he forgot the occurrence.

The robbery and the movements of his unfaithful spouse were discovered by Ah Chong very shortly after the steamer sailed, and strenuous efforts were made to stop the steamer by signaling, but the Oceanic paid no attention to the flags displayed from the heads, and soon disappeared beneath the horizon. A cablegram will be sent to Yokohama for the arrest of the woman and the authorities at Honolulu will be notified in case she stops there. It is believed some Chinese Lothario has accompanied the woman and her husband's $10,000. casion is, the Secretary says, not inap-propriate for a review of the results. In order that the subject may be fully of this country's relations to San before and since the conclusion of the General Act and recites the policy pursued toward the islands. It is in relations to Samoa, he says, that we have made the first departure from our traditional and well-established policy of avoiding alliances with foreign powers in relation to objects remote from this hemisphere. Like all other huthis hemisphere. Like all other hu-man transactions the wisdom of that departure must be tested by its fruits.

In 1873 a special agent named Steinberger was sent to the islands by the Secretary of State for the express purpose of obtaining information in regard o their condition. This step seems to have been suggested by certain "highly respectable commercial per mighly respectable commercial persons?" who represented the opportunities of strengthening our commerce relations in that quarter of the globe, and by the circumstance that in the preceding year a naval officer of the United States, acting on his own responsibility, entered into an agreement with the great chief of the Bay of Pago-Pago, whereby the latter, while professing his wish for the triendship and protection of the United States, detailed to this government the exclusive privilege of establishing in that harbor a naval station. In May, 1872, President Grant communicated this agreement to the Senate, saying he would not hesitate to recommend its approval, but for the protection to which it seemed to pledge the United States. It does not appear that the Senate took any action on the agreement.

ment. Secretary Gresham continues with an account of Steinberger's connections with Samoa, and his effects to bring about the amexicilon of the islands to this country; his unauthorized promise to the islanders of the protection or the United States, and his final deportation from the islands on a man-of-war. The Steinberger-Godefroy episode is also recounted. On January 6, 1878, there was concluded at Washington the treaty which, up to the ratification of the General Act of Berlin, twelve years later, contained the only formal definition of the relations of the United States to the Samoan group. The impression produced by a discriminating examination of these treaty stipulations is that they were inspired rather by an amicable desire on the part of our government not to appear insensible to the friendly advances of the Samoan Islands, than by any supposition that the character of our relations to Sa-Secretary Gresham continues with an moan Islands, than by any supposition that the character of our relations to Samoa greatly concerned us. The young however, was then open to form with moan Islands, than by any supposition that the character of our relations to Samo greatly concerned us. The way, however, was then open to form with Samoa any connection our interests might seem to require.

The occasion to make good the obligation of the United States under the treaty of 1878, by re-employing good offices in behalf of the Samoan government, arose in 1885, when Dr. Stuebel, the German Consul, took possession of all the land on which the municipality of Apia, so far as the Samoan government's sovereign rights in it were concerned, to hold it as security antil an understanding with the government should be antived at for the protection of German interests. As a counter-demonstration, the American Consul, Greenebaum, raised the American flag and proclaimed a protectorate. Subsecuently our Ministers at London and Betlin were instructed to say that the claim of an American protectorate over Samoa by the United States Consul at Apia was unauthorized and disapproved, no protectorate of any foreign power being desired; and to suggest that the British and German Ministers at Washington be 4-instructed to confer with the Secretary of State with a view to the establishment of order.

The Secretary details at some length the facts connected with the tripartite protectorate in Samoa, the establishment of a new form of government, the selection of Malletoa as King, the reductance of the matives to accept the new tegime, the resent to coercive measure; the breaking out of war in July, 1892, the intervention of the treaty powers and Matazafa and eleven other chiefs. Then followed the appointment of Henry-C. Ide as Ohief Justice, and the entanglement that have so far been the guly fruits. One of the great difficulties in dealing with matters that Ze at a distance is the fact that Imagination is no longer restrained by our departure from our established policy and the entanglement that have so far been the guly that had previously preserved us from such engagements as those in the General Act of Berlin, which, b

A Horible Tragedy at Sharon Springs, Kan-and Its Sequel—A Son-in-law Murdered for Being

TOPEKA (Kan.,) May 9.-A special to the Capitol from Sharon Springs Kan., says that one of the most deter mined mobs that ever congregated in this portion of the State, on Monday lynohed Wilkam McKinley and his son Lewis, for the murder of Charles Garter, committed one week ago. The news of the double 'ynching reached the outer world for the first time today. The crime which led to the hang-ing was cruel and revolting. About a week ago Charles Garter, a son-in-law of William McKinley, was murdered. An investigation revealed the fact that Fred, the seventeen-yearold son of McKinley, Sr., committed the crime. The boy, when arrested, made a confession stating that he had been induced to kill his brother-in-law hy his father and older brother. Lewis been induced to kill his brother-in-law by his father and older brother, Lewis, The motive for the murder seemed principally revenge and hatred. The murdered man had, only a few weeks before, married McKinley's daughter. It had been stipulated before the marriage that the groom was to pay the bridge father $200 for the privilege of marrying. The groom refused to pay this money after he was married, and thus incurred the enmity of his wife's father and brothers. The boy surprised Garter while asleep, outing him horribly with a garden hoe. He was found dead and houribly mutilated. On Monday the three were arraigned in court, where Fred pleaded guilty as charged, but his father and Lewis pleaded not guilty, walved thrial and were pleaded in jail.

Late Monday night a mob of several bundred men took the father and son to a railroad bridge about half a mile west of town and lynched them. They both begged piteously for mercy. Fred would have probably been hanged with the others, but, instead of taking him to the jail, he was kept under guard in the hotel. The people of the county are aroused at the disposition the junies have shown to burn criminals loose, and say they intend that fustice shall be done in some manner, if not by the proper authorities of the law.

There was a little one-horse road down-in Phoenix ever which Sherman, had secured control. He moved a $10,000 electric plant from Los Angeles to Phoenix for the avowed purpose of turning the horse fine into an electric road. Then he wanted to borrow money on the line and came to me with a demand for $165,000. I telegraphed my father about it and he sent me a peremptory command not to let Sherman have the money except on gilt-edge security.

"Then Sherman commenced to use the lash of the Bank Commissioners. He knew all about the straits of the Pacific Bank was in, and threatened to use his influence with the Commissioners to close our doors unless I gave him the money he wanted. I knew he could keep his word.

BURBANK THEATER-The Great Me-CO-OPERATIVE COLONIES FOR CALI-

It is possible that the existing depression in business may result in a larger accession to the population of this State, not only on the part of business men who have failed, and, having saved something from the wreck, make their minds to begin life over again Western country, where the struggle for existence has not yet be-come so terribly severe as in the East, but also on the part of workingmen who, noting the congested condition of the great cities, have determined to make an attempt to earn their living and establish homes for themselves in the country.

Naturally the first thoughts of mer who have such an object in view turn the Golden State, with its fertile soil and genial skies. A Chicago paper states that trade unionists and others Interested in the welfare of workingmen in California and Colorado have for weeks been in correspondence with local labor men in regard to the lishment of co-operative colonies in the two States, and it seems that the proposition is now about to take tangible shape. The local men have been advised that they can have all the land they want if they can find men to settle on it, and they have come to the nclusion that this can be done.

Several prominent representatives o were to leave for California in a few days to investigate the character of the land which was offered. The object in establishing these co-opera tive colonies is stated to be to relieve congestion in the large cities and give skilled mechanics out of work an opportunity of securing permanent em-ployment at good wages. It is said that in this way much of the sharp competition among the workers can be done away with, and when this is done and the army of the unemployed has dwindled away, the incentive and opportunity for cutting wages will also have disappeared. It is also claimed by leaders that such a plan would go far to do away with strikes. That it would be an excellent thing to relieve the congestion of our large cities is an undoubted fact. Much the misery which exists in this country arises from the terrible overcrowdin It was in line with this plan of action that Gen. Booth established institutions in the country and in colonies to which I from London could be sent. In that case, however, he dealt with the lowest and most hopeless of London's population. The originators of the present movement purpose inviting me-chanics and bona fide workingmen. Presumably they will be expected to have sufficient means to defray their expenses to the Coast, and have a little over for necessaries after they reach here.

Co-operation in the shape of colonies is an excellent method of settling peo-ple on the land, especially when those people have had little or no experience in agricultural pursuits. The system of co-operative colonies has fre- miscalled drawings by this man quently been commended in these col-umns. There is, however, co-operation and co-operation. If the colony is simestablished as a means of assistthe unfit colonist to do what he would not be able to do by himself, and if it is honestly conducted by practical men, there is every chance that such an undertaking will prove a success, provided always that the members of the colony are willing to work and do not expect to get rich without This State, and especially Southern California, is particularly well adapted for such enterprises, because a little irrigated land is all that man needs here. The colonists can be almost as close together as if they the co-operative principle to the settlement of land. What should be avoided in such case is the attempt to introduce socialistic or communistic principles in such untakings. We do not use these words in any harsh sense, but only as far as they relate to the common ownership of all property which is advocated by some people. Such an enterprise rarely succeeds for any length of time, even when those who establish it are ostensibly all in favor of the principle doctrine. Much less is the chance of even temporary success when the members, or most of them, are accusned to and believe in the right of ery man to own as an individual

There are, however, plenty of ways n which co-operation can be made of at assistance in developing a tract hat is needed for the colony, in the of seed, trees, implements, lum-supplies, and so forth, can be pursed to much better advantage by a dred people than by one. In the se way the products of the colony sme way the products of the colony can be marketed to better advantage when the colonists are able to offer everal carloads of one product than then each man has to try to dispose of a retail lot. a single agriculturist," Besides all these material advantages there are many from a social standpoint. Instead of living alone, with perhaps only two or three neighbors within a mile, and those not always of a congenial kind, the settlers enjoy from the beginning the society of a number of people who are in sympathy with them, and many of whom are probably old neighbors, brought up in the same town or village "back East.

At the very beginning of the enter prise they can have a school, a church or meeting-house, a store and a post office; whereas, they would, under dinary circumstances, have to wait years for these improvements. Southern California will welcome the establishment here of many colonies com posed of industrious and worthy peo ple from the large cities of the East We can make room here for all the surplus population of New York, and Boston, and Chicago, and Philadelphia, and a dozen other cities besides

THE COXEY MOVEMENT.

While the Coxeyites who have arrived Washington are being dealt with by the authorities just as if they were dinary law-breakers, a number gangs of men are still endeavoring t the capital from various parts of the country. Their progress is slow and it does not appear that they would be able to get to Washington at all if it were not for the selfishness of many communities, which give them as sistance just for the purpose of getting rid of them, in the same manner that people throw a nickel to an organ-grinder to get him to move on to the next street. This is a very selfish and short-sighted policy and is likely to react upon these sections of the coun-try whose citizens had not the firmness and determination to enforce the law

Meantime these pe culiar features of the movement shoul not blind us to the possible danger which lurks in the gathering of so many destitute men from all parts of the country.

The Industrial Army movement has already been made the subject of a book, a publication of 250 pages having been issued by a Chicago pub-lisher, entitled, "The Story of the Commonweal." It is written by Henry Vincent, the alleged "official historian," and is illustrated with a number of portraits and other engravings. The announcement is made that the work s published under a contract by which the Commonwealers participate in the proceeds from all sales. It appears that the official title of the organization is the "Commonweal of Christ," of which Carl Browne is the marshal The book referred to is disfigured by Browne, who is known here in fornia as "the patent reversible landscape artist," and also as an all-around bilk, bummer and blackmailer. One of the chapters is devoted to the biography of that scoundrel, whose connec tion with this movement is alone suffi-cient to damm it. There is a portrait of L. L. Polk, the recently-decease leader of the Populist party, who, it is clalimed, was the first to suggest the Congress. We are sorry to see that some of the newspapers, which, in the beginning, opposed and condemned the "or now change their tone since the army has attracted so many followers. Apparently these journals begin to think that this may develop into an important movement, which will attract many sympathizers, and they want to place themselves in a position where they can claim to be friendly to it. The Times holds exactly the same view today in regard to this movement as it did when the project was first suggested, and before it was imagined that env considerable number of pec ple could be induced to join it. We shall continue to hold those views-and to express them—even should one-half be afflicted with the mania and decide to join the "army" in its attempt to coerce Congress and force it to enact centain legislation. We fail to see how an act that is foolish, dangerous and unlawful can be rendered any less foolish, dangerous and unlawful because it is participated in by 50,000 people instead of 5000, or 500, or fifty, or five. The act is neither more nor less foolish and unlawful in the one case than in the other. But in the former case it becomes more dangerous, be-cause it is participated in by so many people, and for that reason should be all the more severely condemned by

ISOCIAL RECORD. IN SOCIAL SPHERES.

"An Afternoon in Italy" was given yesterday at the residence of Mrs. A. F. M. Strong, No. 838 Alvarado street, for the benefit of the Home Missionary Society of the First Methodist Epis copal Church. The house was beautifully decorated, the effect in the draw ing-rooms being in red, green and white, the Italian colors. In the large ecception hall nasturtiums were white, the Italian colors. In the large reception hall nasturitums were tastefully arranged. The interest of the afternoon centered on a paper on Italy, by Mrs. D. M. Welch. This lady recently completed a tour of this country, and her account of Rome was especially interesting. Her descriptions were quite vivid. A feature of the decorations was a number of views of places in Italy and of some of the famous works of art. The rooms were crowded, and each of the guests was presented, on entering, with a dainty rosette of the Italian colors. Mrs. Welch's paper occupied nearly an hour, and at its conclusion the dining-room was thrown open and refreshments served by the following young ladies: Misses Wedemeyer, Strong, Fallon and Hattle Strong. The table was decorated with duchesse roses and festooned with trailing smilax. Directly over it and suspended from the chandelier was a basket of these flowers. The buffet was also banked with smilax and roses. The refreshments were Italian, and consisted of macaroni, olives, cakes, crackers and hot repleed fruit juice. As the guests left the diningroom they were presented with a pink rose. Mrs. Strong was assisted in receiving by Mmes. Gillette, C. T. Howry, Hutton, McKoon, A. E. Pomroy, Mulford. Previous to the paper a guitar solo was well played by Miss Hattle Strong. Durling ref. eshments there was also music. The affair lasted from 2 to 5 o'clock.

Career of Crime That Extends All Over the Continent-The Scoundrel Numbers His Victims by the Hundreds

"Dr." G. Hamilton Griffin, the allbound swindler and deal-beat, who lourished in Los Angeles during boom days, and who afterward served a term in a British Columbia penitentiary for crooked practices across the border, is at his old tricks in Chicago. From all accounts, the old reprobate has lost none of his cunning, and, besides conduoting a number of swindling conperns, has found time to disgrace a respectable family and wreck a young girl's life, as will be seen from the fol-

May 3:

"In a recent issue of the Dispatch the public was warned against 'Dr.' G. Hamilton Griffin, and advised to steer clear of his numerous enterprises. It was not without a most thorough investigation that this warning was given, and in support of its statements the Dispatch reproduced an article from the Los Angeles Times, in which the inventor-promoter-physician was termed one of the smoothest swindlers in the country, and given a characteristic California, 'reast.' A photograph labeled, 'Dr. G. Hamilton Griffin, embezzler,' a copy of the one now in the rogues' gailery at Los Angeles, has also setic California 'roast.' A photograph labeled, 'Dr. G. Hamilton Griffin, embezzlez,' a copy of the one now in the rogues' gailery at Los Angeles, has also been forwarded to this office as has considerable information relative to Griffin's California career. Among the many there was one incident that brought Griffin prominently before the public in that State. It was during the boom in Southern California in 1887 that Griffin appeared in the role of promoter and capitalist. By his smooth talk, and, aided by the intense excitement that prevailed, he managed to interest some Eastern capitalists in the purchase of the famous Quinby ranch, near Los Angeles. In those days everything went with a rush, and Griffin succeeded in getting a large sum of money down as a deposit before any investigation of the property was made. It soon developed that Griffin had no authority to sell the property, and when the would-be purchasers looked for Griffin and their deposit money, that gentleman was mowhere to be found. Warrants were taken out for his arrest, and, after considerable search, Griffin was located and taken back to Los Angeles to stand trial. His trial was a most sensational one, and, after a most determined fight, he escaped the perfetentiary on a techni-

back to Los Angeles to stand trial. His trial was a most sensational one, and, after a most determined fight, he escaped the pentientiary on a technicality, and at once left for Canada. "Griffin was next heard of as editor of a society sheet at Victoria, B.C., and a many times millionaire coal landowner. While negotiating for the sale (?) of some of these coal lands in 1888 Griffin was arrested on warrants taken out by the late Hon. Robert Dunsmuir, who alleged that Griffin, in order to keep him (Dunsmuir) from preventing a fraudulent sale of coal lands had written him threatening letters in several languages to the effect that he would kill him if he interefered with the coal-land deal. These letters were unsigned, but bore the figure of a black hand pointed menancingly. "The trial, owing to the prominence of both parties was a celebrated one and was known as the 'black hand' case. Dunsmuir spent a fortune in the prosecution of the case and brought experts from all over the continent to prove Griffin's ability to write the several languages used in the letters. After a long, sensational trial, in which Griffin's past was fully aired, he was found guilty and sentenced to five years' imprisonment. It took the jury just fifteen minutes to reach that verdict and the court less than half that time to deny a new trial.

dict and the court less than half that time to deny a new trial.

"Upon release Griffin claimed to have been converted while in prison; had forgiven all his persecuters and would devote himself to religious literature. A few months later he appeared in Chicago as a promoter, his favorite role. It was as promoter of the Medical Flecting Generator Company the role. It was as promoter of the Medi-cal Electric Generator Company that he first came into public notice in this city. Soon afterward he opened offices in the Masonic Temple as president of the Griffin Sure Rheumatic Cure Company, with an alleged capital stock of $100,000.

"He evidently liked the idea of being president of big corporations, for he soon added to his list the Butter Increase Company, in which he held $75,-000 worth of stock; the Gognier-Griffin Suspended Bridge and Railway Com-soon added to his list the Butter Increase Company, in which he held $75,-000 worth of stock; the Gognier-Griffin Suspended Bridge and Railway Company, in which he held $200,000; the National Lead Mining and Smelting Company of Illinois, in which he held $97,000 worth of stock.

"It can thus be seen that the talented doctor holds no less than $1,375,000 in these four corporations, not to mention how much stock he holds in the Griffin Sure Rheumstic Cure Company. The Dispatch has carefully investigated these concerns and finds them decidedly off color, and does not hesitate to say that Griffin's $1,375,000 or more worth of stock has not the full value of a bushel of potatoes.

"As president, director, etc., in these various high-sounding fakes, this fellow Griffin is able to put on a gorgeous front and ply his vocation as swindler in an elaborate office and with the graceful elegance of a millionaire. Should his intended victim not be sufficiently awed by the display of all this alleged wealth, Griffin shows them all the valuable real estate he holds. One of his favorite 'flashes' is a piece of property, on which stands four cottages, in Chicago Helghts, and which the 'doctor' calmly claims to be worth anywhere from $25,000 to $50,000. The truth of the matter is that the property is not worth more than $5000, if even that, and if Griffin ever owned it the records fail to show that 'fact. The property, according to the records, is owned by Jay S. Chadwick, who vas mentioned in these columns as Griffin's sunderstudy in the Gognier-Griffin Suspended Bridge and Railway Company, and whose disinterested (?) testimonial of the marvelous effects of the Griffin Sure Rheumatic Cure are to be seen in the advertisements of that remedy. "Another piece of property, for which 'Dr.' Griffin proudly boasts he paid $28,000, is, according to this description the property is located on the filled-in land known as the Johnson tract, and to which no person has or probably ever will have a title until the government assumes possession landed in Chicago, but one case in particular is worthy of notice. It is the story of a desecrated home, a decieved woman and of a lover forsaken almost at the altar.

"For five years, and until Easter, Katle Crokin, a beautiful young woman of probably 23 years, was cashier at Swanson's candy store on State near Handolph street.

"A few months ago Griffin set his eyes upon her and at once began laying his plans of conquest. 'Dr.' Hamilton Griffin is tall, well built and as dark as a negro. He claims to be of Spanish and French descent; but is more generally supposed to have other blood in his make-up. He became a frequent visitor at the candy store and by tales of his fabulous wealth and noble birth he soon won the confidence of his intended victim. Illness in herfamily afforded him an opportunity to call at the home on the North Side. He refused pay for his services and declared himself as desirous of making Katle his wife. Again he repeated the oft-told tale of his wonderful wealth and exhibited evidences of his financial standing. He also told a romantic tale of his early marriage with an English heiress and his subsequent separation some eight years ago.

"But the family would not listen to his suit, much preferring that Katle should marry a wealthy young stock

"But the family would not listen to his suit, much preferring that Katle should marry a wealthy young stock broker of Omaha, to whom she was to have been wedded this month. He persisted in his proposals and the family soon became aware that he had gained a strong influence over the girl. This fact was fully demonstrated when she, at his request, from a devout Catholic became a Protestant. This greatly aroused the family, but they fully realized that it was too late and that the girl was completely under Griffin's control.

"He was denied the house, but still continued to meet his victim and played his trump card one day, when, to prove his affection, he made his will in her favor, by which she was to receive no less than $2,500,000 in stocks, bonds, real and personal property, be sides vast sums deposited in foreign banks. And what unadulterated nerve this fellow displays, to say nothing of the few millions he gives away in worthless stock, but he also throws in $888 in cash, bonds and mortgages. All this and more, for he even gives part of Chicago Heights away, while he and his whole gang of swinders don't own over $5000 worth of heavily mortgaged property in that subdivision. To do so he played another trick equally as ingenious as the $2,500,000 will. He took the confiding girl into Glies Bro.'s jewelry store in the Masonic Temple, and allowed her to select $1600 worth of diamonds. These she was to have of diamonds. These she was to have as soon as some alterations were made to suit him. This occurred a few days before Easter, and on Easter Sunday the girl, at his command, announced her intention of becoming Mrs. Griffin. "A scene ensued, and since then every effort has been made to make the girl change her mind. The result was just as Griffin had, no doubt, planned—dally quarrels—and a little over a week ago Katle left her home, and since has not been seen by her relatives.

"'We told her he was a pauper and an ex-convict and a married man,' said one of the girl's sisters, 'but he had a strange influence over her, and she would not listen to us.'

"Other members of the family speak in the harshest terms of Griffin, and an attorney has been retained, and a vigorous investigation is being made into Griffin's past, and if a single instance is found that will permit of a criminal prosecution, no expense will be spared to push matters.

"'We will get that scoundrel in jail if it costs us every cent we have on earth,' are the words of a member of the Crokin family."

Line Committee and also from the Western Freight Association, the former withdrawal taking effect at once and the latter within ten days. A general meeting of the managers of the association lines was held today to prevent the low rates put in effect yesterday to the Missouri River from being extended to Omaha and Council Bluffs. Before the meeting had made any progress the Burlington tipped over the appeal court by announcing that it would make the same rate on first-class freight to Council Bluffs as now preappeal court by announcing that it would make the same rate on first-class freight to Council Bluffs as now prevails to the Lower Mississippi River points. The general managers then decided to put the question of meeting the Burlington's rate over until tomorrow and took up the matter of making the low rates effective east-bound as well as to the West. The Alton announced it was going to reduce the rates on live stock and dressed beef. They decided to take up the question of rates through Omaha again and meet the rates of Tuesday on all things save live stock and that will be considered tomorrow. The Atchison also threw a bomb into the camp of the Southwestern Freight Association which has been pattently holding sessions all week, by declaring that it would not attend any more meetings of that body. This virtually means the entire disruption of the Southwestern Association. UNION PACIFIC WILL YIELD.

THE AUCTION SALE.

Where It Came from, How and Why It Was Introduced.

it Was Practiced by the Early Romans and Became a Method of Getting Rid of Their Spoils of War-Auctions With the Anglo-Saxon Race.

Auction sales are of Roman origin. It is an arrangement now, as it was at the earliest times, for increasing the price of the article offered for sale by exciting competition among the purchasers. The Dutch had a method of auction which was peculiarly their own, and was known in trade as a Dutch auction; it consisted of offering the article at a higher price than the crowd was willing to pay, and lowering it gradually until a price was reached at which some one would purchase the article. The Roman method, however, is much jodder and is much better adapted to the uses of trade. The Romans introduced the auction for the purpose of disposing of the spoils their armies had taken in war. The sign of an auction among the Romans was a spear stuck in the ground. Such sales were said to take place "sub hasta," or under the spear. The auction has always been popular among the Anglo-Saxons as a means of selling goods. Through it the seller places his property really at the disposition of his purchasers, depending upon free competition in the bidding to bring the price of the article up to that standard which abides in men's minds concerning its value.

The auction sale was the method selected by M. German to dispose of his large and valuable stock of fewelry at his store, No. 230 South Spring street. In order that the auction might be conducted after the most approved forms and with grestest success, one of the most successful auctioneers in the United States was engaged to make the sales. The auctions have been going on daily since their inception, and they will continue until the stock is entirely disposed of. A vast quantity of goods yet, remain to be knocked down under the hammer. These include ladies' and gentlemen's gold watches and chains, fine diamonds, all kinds of precious stones, plate ware and many articles of jewelry, everything being first-class. The sales take place at 2 and 7 o'clock each aftornoon and evening at No. 320 South Spring street.

DECIDES THE CASE.

Mrs. Lacv is Granted a Divorce.

Attorney's Fees of $3000 Also

Policy Pursued by the Husband.

Judge Shaw Renders a Comprehensive Opin ion in the Matter, Covering the Various Points Involved-Settlement Reached.

The order granting Isabella Lacy s divorce from William Lacy was made yesterday by Judge Shaw, who also directed that M. L. Graff, Esq., counsel for the plaintiff, receive attorney's fees in the additional sum of $2500, making a total of $3000 to be paid for legal services on Mrs. Lacy's side for the ecution of the case and settlement was granted was desertion. No contest was raised in the matter by Mr. Lacy, and the plantiff has been allowed the free and undisturbed use of the famresidence in East Los Angeles since descrition occurred. The defendant s also very liberal in his action towas also very liberal in his action to-ward his wife, agreeing that she should be given one-half of the community property and that the selection of such should be made by herself or her coun-sel. Mr. Graff attended to the division of the $200,000 estate and was granted, as partial payment for his services $500 to the court to fix the total amount of his fee, or rather he agreed as a matter of preference that the fixing of compensation should rest entirely with the court, and that the amount should be based upon the opinion of reputable lawyers. Accordingly Judge Shaw listended to testimony as to the appraised value of the services and received views of a somewhat diversified order. Some attorneys, a number in fact, said that they thought $5000 would be a reasonable charge, while others set the amount as low as $600. Mr. Graff applied for no fixed amount, but merely asked the court to decide upon that point, which it has now done.

In the opinion in which the fees are fixed and the decree of divorce ordered Judge Shaw, reviewing the legal aspects of the case, says:

"The principal contest on the trial of this action arose in regard to the application of the plaintiff for an allowance for counsel fees for the prosecution of this action. The defendant, in the first this action. The defendant, in the first place, objects to any allowance for counsel fees in addition to the $500 allowed and paid at the beginning of the action. The reason assigned for this objection is that under sec. 137 of the Civil Code the court can allow a counsel fee to the wife in an action for divorce only when such fee is necessary to enable her to prosecute or defend the action, and that as the case has now been prosecuted to its termination, there does not exist at this time any necessity for this allowance. The position of the defendant's counsel is that if by any means whatever the wife has obtained the services of counsel to prosecute the action, and ever the wife has obtained the services of counsel to prosecute the action, and it has been so prosecuted, under any circumstances, without calling on the husband for a counsel fee, the court cannot, in rendering final judgment, or at the conclusion of the trial before final judgment, make any order requiring the husband to pay the wife's counsel fees, because at that time the work is done, and the necessity does not then exist.

This is too broad a statement of the "This is too broad a statement of the rule, and it is not sustained by the authorities cited. It has been held that, if the wife is enabled to procure counsel to prosecute her action, either by resorting to her own separate estate, or to any portion of the community property which may be under her cohtrol, or because her attorney has agreed to prosecute her case, either gratuitously or upon the faith of her promise to pay him therefor, the court ought not to order the husband to pay her anything for that purpose, because in such a case there is no necessity to call on him for payment. (Mudd vs. Mudd, 98 Cal., 322. Sharon vs. Sharon, 75 Cal., 42.) But in this case an application was made at the outset for an order requiring the defendant to pay to the plaintiff a reasonable sum to enable her to employ counsel to prosecute the action to a conclusion. The court did not then make a final order, but dreeted the husband to pay her $500, "to be applied toward" counsel fees. It action to a conclusion. The court dianot then make a final order, but directed the husband to pay her $500, "to be applied toward" counsel fees. It was not stated in the order at that time, but must have been understood by counsel for pleaminf, that this was not to be a payment in full of counsel fees, and that, upon a proper showing subsequently made, the count would make a further allowance. The order tiself has since been amended so as to be substantially to that effect. The plantiff had then, and has now, neither separate estate nor control of any community property. Her attorney did not make any agreement to conduct the case gratuitously, or upon her promise to pay him, and it is clear that he has continued to act as her attorney because of his understanding that a further allowance would be made by the court if applied for and a proper showing made; and that he had no expectation of obtaining compensation for his services from any other source. "Under such circumstances I think son, Councilman J. S. Cox, Judge H. W. Mages, L. P. Hansen, E. Groenendyke, of the services from any other source.

"Unker such circumstances I think that the rule stated in the cases above tited does not apply, and that the court ought not to say to her that, because the work has already been done in reliance apon this understanding, there is now no necessity for the allowance of coursel fees. Such a ruling would be an act of gross bad faith on the part of the court toward the plaintiff and her coursel.

"If appears, aleb, that the plaintiff and ther coursel.

"If appears, aleb, that the plaintiff and defendant have agreed on a proper division of the community property whereby the plaintiff will receive property of the value of about $94,000, but the agreement is us yet unexceuted and subject to change or modification. The defendant's counsel argues that there is now no necessity to require the husband to pay the plaintiff so counsel fees, because she will, when this agreement is actived out and the division made, have ample means with which to pay her sitterneys. If she now had control of a sufficient amount of the community property, that fact would be a good answer to an application for counsel fees, but that fact would be a good answer to an application for counsel fees, but that fact would be a good answer to an application for counsel fees, but that fact would be a projugation will be indulged in by the bourts in considering an application for counsel fees, the that fact would be a good answer to an application for counsel fees, but that fact would be a good answer to an application for counsel fees, but that fact would be a good answer to an application for counsel fees, but that fact would be a good answer to an application for counsel fees, but that fact would be a good answer to an application for counsel fees, but that fact would be a good answer to an application for counsel fees, but that fact would be a good answer to an application for counsel fees, the plication is granted when a good cause as case, and would ultimately fail, and therefore the husband ought not to be required to assist her in a vain effort to establish a bad case. It is well set-tled that no such inquiry will be alto establish a bad case. It is well settled that no such inquiry will be allowed.

"In every case where there is a large amount of community property, it could be said that when it is divided the wife will be able to pay her counsel. But the community property is the proper resource for means to pay the wife's counsel fees, whether it is in the hands of the husband or the wife. If it is all in the control of the husband, it is proper that he should be required to pay counsel fees, and it is no answer to say that she will presently become possessed of a portion of it. In equity and justice, particularly where neither party has a separate estate, the most that the husband could claim would be that the fees be paid out of the community property, and that the remainder be divided, thus in effect requiring the wife to pay half the fees. As the granting of the divorce conclusively establishes the fact that the husband be required to pay the fees out of his portion. But as the division is not concluded, and is to be made by the parties and not be, and is not decided. It is sufficient to say that under the circumstances she is now entitled to an allowance. The authorities seem to indicate that this is the proper procedure in any case. (2 Bishop Marriage and Divorce, 411-412.

is now entitled to an allowance. The authorities seem to indicate that this is the proper procedure in any case. (2 Bishop Marriage and Divorce, 411-416.)

"Both parties have introduced evidence as to the value of the services. The estimates vary wflely, running from $550 to $5000. The principal part of the work of the counsel for plaintiff consisted of attending to and advising about the division of the community property and ascertaining the amount and character thereof. It appears that the defendant has done what he could to lighten the labors of counsel, and that he has, throughout the case, acted with entire good faith and fairness in exhibiting to them the extent and character of the estate. It also appears that while the property was valuable, amounting to nearly $200,000, yet the books and accounts were all in perfect order and accurately kept and the title to the real estate was perfect and not intricate or confused, so that the examination was not attended with great labor or much research. The defendant ought to have the beneas afforded for the investigation, and on that account the fee of counsel should be much less than in a case where the contest was bitter and the shreet the contest was bitter and the shreet each of the sand the sound of his manner of conducting his business, as well as of the facilities he has afforded for the investigation, and on that account the fee of counsel should be much less than in a case where the contest was bitter and the snreet action as to the estate either difficult in its nature or made so by his conduct or indifference.

"When an attorney is asked to fix his fee in advance he usually puts it high enough to compensate him for all the services which he thinks may probably arise in the case. It is sedom that a case of such magnitude is rendered so simple and easy as the conduct of the defendant has caused this one to be. I think some of the witnesses did not sufficiently take this circumstance in the case. It is sended that the sum of $3000 is a fair compensation f

The trip was made in the interests of the Lake View Land Company, but its purpose was not to sell lands, but simply to have the representative and disinterested members of the party express an opinion relative to the value of the land in question, the accompanying water

In question, the accompanying water rights and the project in general.

The party was made up as follows: Col. G. G. Green, the multi-millionaire of Woodbury, N. J. and Pasadena; E. C. Webster, one of Pasadena's most pushing Woodbury, N. J. and Pasadena; E. C. Webster, one of Pasadena's most pushing and progressive citizens; Mayor T. P. Lukens of Pasadena, and president of the Pasadena National Bank; P. M. Green, president of the First National Bank; Manager Wade and Passenger Agent Hynes of the Santa Fe; Andrew McNally, head of the great Chicago publishing house, and his sou-in-law, E. D. Neff; H. Brown Green, son of Col. Green; Judge Richard Egan of Capistrano; George W. Beck, late of Chicago, but now a resident of Pasadena; C. D. Daggett, M. E. Wood, C. A. Gardner, Capt. C. M. Simpson, Councilman J. S. Cox, Judge H. W. Magee, L. P. Hansen, E. Groenendyke, of Pasadena, and a Times reporter. The car was decked out with a profusion of flowers, and was well stocked with fruit and everything else that could minister to the comfort of the party. At San Bernardino an extra locomotive was in waiting, and from there the train was run as a special. In not much over an hour the train reached Perris, and after a short stop moved up the San Jacinto branch several miles to a point almost opposite Mr. Webster's handsome ranch. Carriages were in waiting, and in a few minutes the guests were seated around two tables at the ranch house, that were literally weighted down beneath a feast of toothsome edibles. There was no unnecessary time wasted over the dinner, but it can be fairly set down as one of the most enjoyable features of an enjoyable day.

the new flume and the artesian wells, the latter of which were carefully inspected by the visitors and elicited their heartlest approval. The drive was then continued to San Jacinto, where the train was boarded for home.

The character of the land and the water privileges may heat be judged from the

The character of the land and the water privileges may best be judged from the brief opinions expressed by some of those present as follows:

P. M. Green. There is no question about the water supply. The amount simply depends upon the number of artesian wells sunk. There is no finer soil or piece of land for colony purposes to be found anywhere.

of land for colony purposes to be found anywhere.

K. H. Wade. The land certainly couldn't be any better, and the water supply seems to be abundant.

C. D. Daggett. The lay of the land, soil, etc., indicate that the tract is as fine a plece of land as can be found in Southern California. The water supply appears to be all that is claimed for it.

M. E. Wood. It is a remarkably fine be all that is claimed for it.

M. E. Wood. It is a remarkably fine tract of land. Water can be found anywhere near the surface, so that each owner can sink his well, and so be in complete possession of a perpetual water supply. It is easy land to work, the gradual slope removing all necessity for leveling. I think there is a strong possibility of a railroad being built through this valley from San Jacinto to Perris.

E. Groenendyke. The soil is unsurpassed, and the easy slope will render irrigation and cultivation inexpensive. There is every indication of an abundant water supply.

E. D. Neff. There is no doubt at all about the water supply.

E. D. Neff. There is no doubt at all about the water supply. It can be obtained anywhere. The tract offers a fine site for a new town.

H. Brown Green. The land is wonderfully rich, and when the water supply is developed, the place will prove one of the garden spots of the country.

Andrew McNally. There is no question about the land being good, nor about an unlimited water supply.

H. W. Magee. The possibilities of the Lake View tract and the enterprise behind it and the abundant supply of artesian water will make it one of the most desirable investments for active settlers in Southern California. Mr. Webster is a host in himself in the management of host in himself in the management of such an enterprise, and I predict that it will be a great success. T. P. Lukens. I am very familiar with all the details of the land. Was formerly employed as expert by a company of English capitalists to pass upon the titles, etc. About one-third of the tract i tles, etc. About one-third of the tract is alfalfa land, and a large proportion of the balance is most excellent land for citrus and deciduous fruits of all kinds. The soil is deep, and nothing can excel the location for health. The water supply is simply unlimited. Enough water can be obtained to irrigate all the land as far south as Elsinore. There is no better investment in Southern California, as all of the bankers and capitalists of Pasadena, who have seen it will testify.

the bankers and capitalists of Pasadena, who have seen it, will testify.

Col. G. Green. It is a most beautiful and fertile section of land, and the water supply seems to be ample. It will undoubtedly prove a great financial success. Similar sentiments were voiced on the way home by Councilman Cox and other members of the party.

The following resolutions were submitted on the way home in a neat speech by C. A. Gardner, and were passed unanimously:

"Whereas, we have this day enjoyed, through the hospitality of E. C. Webster, manager of the Lake View Land Com-pany, the Southern California Railroad Company and Col. G. G. Green, the pleas-

"Resolved, that we tender to said Lake View Land and Water Company, the Southern California Railroad Company and to Col. G. G. Green, our hearty appreciation of the pleasure thereby afforded which has constituted one of the hapment days in our experience.

"Resolved, that we esteem the property of said Lake View Land and Water Company, both in its lands and water rights to be among the most valuable we have seen, and look forward to its development as an important factor in the prosertity of Southern California, that we seen, and look forward to its development as an important factor in the prosperity of Southern California; that we commend the wisdom and sagacity of our fellow-citizen in that development, as both a sagacious business enterprise, and an act of great public utility.

"Resolved, that our best wishes go out to the gentlemen in their work, and a hope that their reward may be commensurate with its great public service."

Mr. Webster responded in a few happy remarks. A vote of thanks proposed by Mr. Lukens, was tendered to Mr. Webster and the ladies who had prepared the sumptuous dinner, and later on Capt. Simpson, the Lake View Company's attorney, explained at some length the present standing and plan of operation of the company, showing it to be on a sound, financial basis.

Mr. Webster's large possessions in the Perris district were a source of gratification to his friends. A syndicate of Pasadena capitalists has already been formed to set out about 600 acres on Mr. Web-to set out about 600 acres on Mr. ster's ranch to olives next spring.

Rosebuds for the Midwinter. Rosebuds for the Midwinter.

Twelve thousand rosebuds were sent from the Chamber of Commerce yesterday to the Southern California exhibit at the Midwinter Fair. The flowers, which are for the coming rose show, were donated by the following ladies, Mmes. E. Hollenbeck of Boyle Heights, William Ruddy, W. H. Haas, of Fourteenth street and Miss M. Ward. Ward.

Classes vs. Masses.

(Donahoe's Magazine for May:)
There can be no modus vivendi established between the classes and the masses. Sparta agreed at one time to accept the joint reign of two kings;
but a pure democracy must govern alone or be governed. If the people make the laws, arictocracy cannot. If aristocracy gains foot-room in this republic democracy will become but the splendid masquerade of power paraded for the amusement of the few.
No great civilization was ever based upon the stark brain-power of any set of men. It is not enough to think out an algebraic formula of human soclety. It must be lived out. Both the aristocrat and the savage can think—sometimes they think alike—but neither can found great nations. Civilization is the robust child of brain and heart, and must grow in an atmosphere of morality. The purely intellectual aristocrat, bred in the toils of a subtle erudition, unwarmed by the Classes vs. Masses.

TARIFF TALK.

Debate Between H. T. Hazard and Louis F. Post.

Free Trade on One Side as Against Protection on the Other - The Issues Ably Presented by the Respective Champions.

The joint debate on the tariff ques-tion between ex-Mayor Hazard and Louis F. Post, the single-tax lecturer, at Unity Church last evening, was attended by a fair audience. The discussion was pleasantly conducted throughout, and sympathy seemed to be with the ideas of both speakers, for the more important points which each of them made were liberally applauded.

Mr. Post spoke first. He said that protection is no more American than is the Edrish language. American protection is no more American than is the E-zuish language. American labor, he said, needs no protection. He went on to illustrate the benefits from trade by citing the case of a compositor who had a cellar dug under his house. Asked why he did not dig it himself, he said he could dig it more easily with his composing stick. Ex-Mayor Hazard's turn to speak having come, he began by speaking of protection as the means by which the coin of the realm is to be kept where it may be reached. Referring to the composing stick, he asked what the printer would do without that stick. He objected to the statement made by his opponent that free trade would not take the money from the country, and that there is no monopoly of money, because all that is needed in the case of scarcity of money is a little more book-keeping. He failed to see how any amount of figuring would relieve a man with an unpaid mortgage against his property.

Free trade, he said, would result in placing the American workman on a level with the pauper labor of Europe. His opponent's argument that the tariff operates only to protect the monopoly, and not the laborer, he believed to be error. How could the market on a par with the product of a foreign manufacturer who does not pay such taxes?

Take away the money of the country and that the tark the taxes?

foreign manufacturer who does not pay such taxes?

Take away the money of the country and the tool by which business is done is taken away. When the bar is thrown down that protects this country from the conditions of Europe, the same rate of wages will obtain here that obtains there.

Again in his reply to the claim that the tariff protects monopoly, it should be remembered there is no monopoly of manufacture in this country. The people of this country erect a barrier to protect themselves from other countries because other countries also erect such barriers against their fellow-nations.

Make free trade and this country will be flooded with goods of foreign manufacture, while the people are paying their money out of the country for foreign luxuries that ought to be manufactured here.

The trade of today is not like the barter of the past, and should not be classed on the same plane.

Mr. Post, taking the platform again, said Mr. Hazard need not have made the exuse of lack of pragramethom. The the excuse of lack of preparation. The presentation of the protection side of the operation by him had been as clear, as he had ever heard it. (Applause.) Mr. Post spoke with a degree of frony about the so-called protection of infant industries. The time had come, he thought, when some of these infants ought to be able to walk without protection.

infant industries. The time had come, he thought, when some of these infants ought to be able to walk without protection.

Touching upon steel ratis, he admitted that, after a tariff had been placed on them, the price of rails in this country fell. It is to be noticed, however, that the price also fell at the same time in England, where there was no tariff. The beginning of the American tariff shortly before the time of George Washington has been referred to as the beginning of the development of the country. It should be remembered, however, that there had, previous to that time, been 200 years of settlement, and some of the industries had already grown to be the best in the world.

Replying to the argument that in foreign countries wages are lower, he cited a number of cases where two foreign nations may be compared, and where the one which is the more of a protection country is the one in which the higher wages obtain. He then went on to quote from a report made by James G. Blaine, as Secretary of State in 1881, in, which it was started that the evident reason why the American workman services are the more valuable.

Resuming the platform, Mr. Hazard took issue with what had been said about the profuction of steel rails. The results of protection, he stid are to be seen in the local industries which have developed right here in Southern California. The Chino sugar factory, it could not be disputed has been as a crest and to this region. When he (Hazard) first came to this country they thought they could not raise their flour here, and imported if from Chile, For a long time there was no bacon manufactured ferst could not raise their flour here, and imported if from Chile, For a long time there was no bacon manufactured ferst could not raise their flour here, and imported if from Chile, for a long time there was no bacon manufactured ferst Goods are brought is sent lout in return.

Speaking in conclusion, Mr. Post said this is a gold and silver-producing country, and it is just as necessary to ship sold and s

vard R. Cole of Banning Blows Out His Brains

He Had Been Taking Lunch-The Story Developed at the

Howard R. Cole, a native of Pennsyl rania, about 30 years of age, committed cide in a highly sensational manner vesterday afternoon, by blowing out his brains in one of the private diningms at Jack's restaurant on East

From the testimony taken before the Coroner's jury at the inquest, held at Sharp & Sampson's undertaking establishment last evening, and sources, the following facts in connec ion with the case were gathered.

Some three weeks ago, more or less young Cole, who was a good-looking, manly youth, considerably above the manly youth, considerably above the average in height, registered at the average in height, registered at the Hotel Westminster as from Banning. He was always well-dressed and appeared to have plenty of money, but it was evident before he had been here very long that he was inclined to be convivial and sometimes irregular in his habits. To such an extent did his intemperance go, that on Friday morning, April 25 last, he was driven to his hotel by a hackman, and put to bed in a state bordering on delirium tremens. Dr. S. M. Hitt was summoned about 3 o'clock in the morning to attend the young man, who was then undoubtedly suffering from an attack of that dread thesease, and remained with his patient for some time. Under Dr. Hitt's treatment young Cole soon recovered and was left in charge of a nurse, but, escaping the vigilance of the youth hired in that capacity, he had two more attacks. Upon each occasion Dr. Hitt was called in to treat him, and on several occasions that physician was summoned to see his patient at saloons and other places. Finally at Dr. Hitt's suggestion, he left town and went down to Ontario, where he remained for three days only; but before he left it was agreed that unless he succeeded in straightening out. This time, he should try the Keeley cure. On last Saturday, however, he returned to town and at once resumed his debauch.

Shortly after his arrival in this city Cole formed the acquaintance of Mrs. Jessie Lang, a strikingly handsome blonde, the wife of a cattle-dealer, residing at the Menlo Hotel. That they were upon very intimate terms is evident from the fact that upon the occa-Hotel Westminster as from Banning.

blonde, the wife of a cattle-dealer, residing at the Menlo Hotel. That they were upon very intimate terms is evident from the fact that upon the occasion of Dr. Hitts' first visit to Cole, Mrs. Lang visited his patient about 5 o'clock in the morning, and spent a good deal of time at the young man's bedside on various occasions afterwards. At the doctor's suggestion also, she went down to Ontario at the same time as Cole, it being hoped that she might have sufficient influence over him to prevent him from drinking. Just what their relations were could not be ascertained, as the woman absolutely refused to be interviewed by newspaper reporters, and those to whom she did talk about the case omitted to inquire. About 10 o'clock vesterday morning, however, Cole called at Mrs. Lang's room in the Menlo Hotel, and announced that the wanted to speak to her on very important business, As she had not yet arisen, she made arrangements to meet and take lunch with him at Jack's restaurant an hour later. Ht then left and at 11:30 o'clock rangements to meet and take lunch with him at Jack's restaurant an hour later. eH then left and at 11:30 o'clock she met him according to appointmen one of the rooms on the second floor the restaurant, and they ate to gether there. During the meal Cole who was evidently under the influence of liquor, placed a loaded revolver upon the table by the side of his plate, and the table by the side of his plate, and acted strangely, but Mrs. Lang, knowing his condition, did not anticipate any trouble. After the meal had been discussed Cole rang for a messenger boy, whom he dispatched for Dr. Hitt, a young lawyer named Alfred Cooper and two boxes of cartridges of 38 callbar. callber.

Upon the arrival of Dr. Hitt Cole accused him of having made trouble between the woman and himself, by not telling her of his return from the country. The doctor attempted to induce him to give up or loan the pistol to him, but Cole refused, saying, that he would take care of that. They then had some conversation about the settlement of the doctor's bill, it being would take care of that. They then had some conversation about the settlement of the doctor's bill, it being finally agreed that the doctor should wait until Thursday, when Cole should have sobered up.

Meanwhile Cooper arrived upon the scene, and Cole announced that he wanted the attorney to draw up a conveyance from him to Mrs. Lang of twenty acres of orange lands at Highlands. The woman, however, refused to entertain this idea, and dismissed Cooper by telling him that Cole was drunk and did not know what he was stalking about. Cooper then demanded his fee, stating that he could not afford to be called from his office and run all over town for nothing, but Cole refused to pay him, and swore so terribly that the woman disgustedly left the room and went into an adjeining one. While the doctor and lawyer were there, Cole asked the woman to mail two sealed letters which he placed on the table, but subsequently put into his pocket.

After they had left the restuarant, Cole went into the room where Mrs. Lang was sitting, and talked in an irrational manner, emphasizing his remarks by brandishing the pistol about in an aimless kind of way. The woman begged of him to put the weapon in his pocket, but he repeatedly ihreatened to kill himself with it, and finally rushed from her presence back to the room in which they had lunched together.

A few seconds later a shot rang out,

Upon entering the room Milovich tound Cole lying upon the floor in a a ghastly wound in the center of the young man's forehead. He was lying about three feet from and diagonally

the table nearest to him lay a pistol.
Milovich at once notified officer McGraw who was on that beat, of what had occurred, and cole, who was still alive, was conveyed as quickly as possible to the Receiving Hospital in the patrol wagon, but he died almost immediately upon arriving at that institution.

Meanwhile Detective Hawley was dealled to investigate the matter, and, sefore the injured man was removed from the restaurant, that officer had napsected the room and its surroundnap and satisfied himself that there was no suspicion of foul play.

In order, however, to get at the indie history of the affair he requested for Lang to accompany him to police

Strange to say, only one of the two letters which Cole was seen to take from the table in the restaurant was found upon him after his death, and what became of the second, to whom it was addressed, the nature of its contents will, in all probability, never be known.

be known.

The letter found upon him, which was written in pencil, sealed, stamped and addressed to "Mrs. W. H. Joyce, Rosemont P.O., Montgomery county Pa.," reads as follows:

LOS ANGELES, May 9, 1894.

My Dear Sister Eva: I know you will be surprised when you read this, but there is nothing on this earth forme. I have been downhearted ever since Baby Jess died, and now I have another Jessie. Bhe threw me last night, and now I shall kill myself with the gun Baby Jess gave me.

My dear sister, Baby loved me on this earth, and I know she will on the other. Please do not tell Annie what I have done, for it would kill her. I want Helen to get what I have here and my Jessie to have everything else. I call her my Jessie, but why should I have given up all for her? And this is the thanks I get.

Do not look me up, for no one will ever know my name of who I am. These are the last words you will ever get from me. I cannot pen my thanks for your love for me.

I am, your loving brother,

HOWARD R. COLE.

Kiss dear Helen. She is the only one that loved her uncle Howard.

That the Lang woman and the deceased had quarreled on previous occasions was shown by, the testimony of Police Sergeant Jeffries at the Inquest, he having seen them, about 2:30 o'clock Friday morning last, surrounded by a crowd of hackmen on Mahn street, near Second. As he approached, however, they separated, and Cole dodged down Most alley and digappeared, while the woman, when asked what the trouble was, disdained to respond, and waked past the officer.

Some light was thrown upon Cole's antecedents by Dodd Dwyer, a cattleman of Banniang, who appeared unexpectedly and voluntarily at the inquest, he having heard of the tragedy while on the train.

He stated that he had known the deceased for several months, Cole having boarded with him up to within the past month ago, and he then had $1000 in oath, which he announced he was going to invest by purchasing a place at month ago, and he then had $1000 in oath, which he announced he was going to invest by purc

MUSICAL MENTION.

MUSICAL MENTION.

The Woman's Orchestra gave its first concert last night at the Grand Operahouse for the benefit of the Associated Charities. The stage was beautifully decorated with roses. A fair-sized audience was present. The orchestra is composed of twenty-nine young women, who presented a pretty picture in their white gowns. It has been organized only since October, but did not begin rehearsing until November. While, of course, in so new an organization there are defects, taken as a whole the performance last night was creditable both to the participants and conductor, Harley E. Hamilton. The orchestra lacks force, nearly all the work being done by the strings. The finale from Haydn's "Fifth Symphony" and the grand march from "Tannhauser" were too ambitious and proved a disappointment. "Babbillage" (Gillet) for string alone, was'a light, airy selection and was well given. The soloists were Miss Augustine Berger, pianist, and Winfield Blake, basso. The former played Rubinstein's "Taranteile" in most effective style and was encored. Mr. Blake sang the toreador song from "Carmen," and later, "It Was Not so to Be" from "The Trumpeter:" His singing was far more satisfactory in the latter number than the one from Bizet's opera. He was encored after each selection. The rest of the programme was: Overture, "La Dame Blanche" (Boleldieu,) "Immortellen Waltzee" (Gung!:) overture, "Martha" (Flotow:) gavotte, "Bijou" (Moses) and "Danse Neapolitam" (Tobain.) The following compose the orchestra:

Commissioner McLain moved to recommend to the Council that the beard be empowered to sell or trade six of the horses at present belonging to the fire department, such horses having become unfit for fire service. Adopted. Adjourned.

THE FIRE ALARM APPARATUS.

THE FIRE ALARM APPARATUS.

The latest proposition for a location of the new fire alarm apparatus reof the new fire alarm apparatus recently purchased by the city, and one which seems likely to be adopted, is to give the Chief Engineer and the City Electrician the room now used as the Health Office. The room having two windows, the apparatus may be placed near the window at the rear of the room, and separated by a partition from the front of the room, which can be used as the Chief's office. By so doing, the apparatus will have a well-lighted place, where it can be kept free from dust and practically out of reach of malicious or careless persons. The proposition contemplates the removal of the Health Office to the room directly above, which room is almost exactly the same. The commissioners for the opening and widening of streets can have the room now occupied by the Chief of the fire department and can have the room now occupied by the Chief of the fire department and by the fire alarm apparatus at present

THE CITY ASSESSMENT.

roperty-owners Urged to at once Send in Their Statements. City Assessor Hinton wishes to urge upon property-owners who have not yet filed in his office statements of their possessions that it will be greatly to their advantage to do so within about a week. The field deputies are now all employed in the office, a formal demand having been made on each owner of real estate to present his statement. In all cases where statements are not presented in about one week from now it will be necessary to assess the property arbitrarily, be it personal property or real estate. The law permits the assessor in such a case to assess it at a value up to ten times what it is really worth.

Of course it will be endeavored to place arbitrary assessments at a figure as fair as may be, but it will undoubtedly be much to a property-owner's interest to file his statement before it is too late.

Sec. 3633 of the Political Code says: "If any person, after demand made by the Assessor, neglects or refuses, mand having been made on each owner interest to file his statement before it is too late.

Sec. 3633 of the Political Code says:

ation,"
It should also be remembered that statements will not be received if sent by mail. They must be submitted and sworn to in person, before the City Assessor or his deputy.

NEW SEWER DISTRICTS. The Western Part of the City Now Being

In accordance with instructions from In accordance with instructions from the City Council sewer districts for the sewering of that portion of the city lying west of Pearl and Figueroa streets and south of First street are being laid out under the direction of the City Engineer. One or more ordinances, each ordinance being for one district, will probably be ready to present to the Council next.

one of more ordinances, each ordinance being for one district, will probably be ready to present to the Council next Monday.

Inasmuch as some impatience has been expressed because of an apparently unnecessary delay in laying out the districts as desired, it may be stated that the work is such as to preclude its being pushed very rapidly.

In laying out the districts it is first necessary to make a map of the territory which such districts are to cover. The map as first made shows the location of all the streets. The next thing to be done is to ascertain from the records of the office the elevation of each street intersection. By the term elevation, as thus used, is meant the perpendicular distance which any given point may be above what is known as the city datum plane.

are properly marked on the map and then comes the work of locating the various natural watersheds. A heavy line is drawn on the map along such streets, as near as possible, as follow nearest the lines of division between watersheds. The watersheds having thus been divided each such division is termed a district.

The districts having been defined the next work is to ascertain the required carrying capacity of the various sewers. This is computed by adding all the street frontages, allowing one person for each ten feet of frontage, and estimating 100 gallons of sewage per day for each person. Beginning at the lower part of the drainage area the size of the main sewer is determined by its grade, considered with the volume of sewage computed to be rerequired to be carried by it.

Proceeding upward along the area of drainage the sizes of the various sewers are computed in the same manner—the grade of each sewer and the volume of sewage it must carry being considered.

The territory west of Pearl and volume of sewage it must carry being considered.

The territory west of Pearl and Figueroa streets, and between First and Washington streets, has been divided into eight districts. In the Fifth Ward, west of Figueroa street, two districts have been designed. The sewers specified in the ordinances will be for all the principal streets. Some of the smaller streets can afterward be sewered and drained into the district sewers by separate ordinance and by the usual street proceedings whenever property-owners desire.

The district embracing most of Westlake Park is likely to be one of the most difficult to drain. It covers about 250 acres and extends irregularly from the city line southwest of Westlake Park and northerly to First street. If the district be drained by a sewer running westerly along Seventh street, a cut of thirty feet in depth will be necessary. Some better route will probably, however, be devised.

In laying out each district provision is made for utilizing all bonded sewers which have already been constructed.

City Hall Notes.

The Finance Committee of the City Council was in session again yesterday afternoon considering the revision of afternoon considering the revision of the license ordinance.

The Board of Public Works will probably drive, this afternoon, over the routes for which street nailway franchises are asked, respectively, by H. F. Storrs and the Main-street and Agricultural Park Railway Company.

The school census, which has been completed, will foot up something over 13,000. Those employed in taking the census are engaged in checking the lists with the registers of the various schools so as to make sure the name of no child attending school is omitted. The census roll will probably be completed this week.

The second half of the city taxes for the present year, the unpaid items of which became delinquent last Monday, amounts to $204,407.88. The total amount on this half collected by the City Tax and License Collector was $192,847.76, leaving uncollected or delinquent on the second half $11,560.12. This showing is said to be considerably better than that for one year ago.

The Vinette Case Before the Superior Judges

There was a long row of Industrial Army members ranged before the bar in Department Six yesterday morning a spectacle as ever is witnessed abou the county courts. Arthur Vinette was there, as were also a number of his followers and all wore on their coat lapel a miniature flag, the badge of the Commonwealers. that the confinement enforced upon them was amply compensated for by the privilege of being made the center of the curious gaze of an inquisitive

Application having been made to the Supreme Court for the release of the defendants, who have been of late incarcerated in the jail at San Bernardino, it was ordered that the petition for a writ of habeas corpus be heard in this county, hence the appearance of the defendants here yesterday.
Judges Van Dyke, Clark and Smith
sat in bank on the case, Frank Oster, District Attorney of San Bernardino county appeared with Dist.
Atty. Dillon for the people, and Louis Luckel, J. P. Dunlap and F.
Miller, Esq., for the defendants.
The first proposition taken up and discussed was the question of the validity of the order of the Justice of the Peace holding the Industrials to answer for trial for inciting a riot. This order was admitted to have been made without authority, or where no jurisdiction existed, as no such crime as that mentioned was known to the statutes.
Upon the question of holding for evading rallroad fare there seemed some doubt, and the evidence and documents necessary to support the same not being at hand, the court ordered that further hearing be continued until 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Trial in the case of Lee Seabright Trial in the case of Lee Seabright against Robert McAdam and O. H. Johnson, came up yesterday in Department Five. The plaintiff alleges as grounds for damages that on August 15 of last year he was brought before Justice Samuel Owens of Whitter upon a complaint sworn to by Johnson and instigated by McAdam, falsely charging him with maliciously tearing down a fence of an inclosure of property of McAdam. The trial resulted in the acquittal of Seabright, and he now asks for $5000 damages against the defendants for false imprisonment.

SANTA MONICA.

SAINTA MOINICA, May 9.— (Special Correspondence.) A meeting of the Board of Trade was convened Tuesday evening, at which Robert F. Jones presided and J. J. Carrillo was secretary. The principal object of the meeting was the election of four delegates to the Good Roads Convention at Los Angeles, May 12, but incidentally considerable other business was discussed after the delegates had been named. These comprise Robert Eckert, Thomas H. James, M. H. Kimball and J. B. Dunham; alternates, J. J. Carrillo, T. R. Owens, T. H. Walls and L. T. Fisher.

The board next took up the proposition of voting bonds for the construction of a sewerage system to be complete and adequate to the future growth of the city. Mr. Jones stated that quite a number of prospective investors in Santa Monica real estate had declined to become interested because there was no provision for taking care of the sewage. A system would enhance the value of property and stimulate the growth of the town. He also proposed the volting of bonds for the erection of a school building on the Seventh-street Park property, stating that Santa Monica being a park in itself needed no tract satief or specially such a purpose, The board was divided on the question of an outset for the proposed sewer some asserting that the sea, was the proper destination for the drainage, and others that the sand dunes south of the proposed estination for the drainage, and others that the sand dunes south of the condemnation the cosposial of the condemnation of the full fine present were a unit, however, in the condemnation with the proposed sewer proper destination for the drainage, and others that they may be sufficient to complete them.

Mr. Mooser spoke at some length and to the point, and then informed the meeting that since the action take they could find school advantages for their children. Those present were unminously in favor of both projects and it is thought that $75.000 will be sufficient to complete them.

A GAMBLING DEIN RANDED.

Behind the screens and in one of the private rooms of one of the saloons in this city today there was a little scene enacted in which a young man from Fullerton and another from Orange figured in a little game of cards to the sorrow of both the participants.

For some time it has been an open secret that gambling has been carried on in some of the saloons of the city, and in some instances, it is claimed that it has been done in defiance of the officers or of the law. But, however this may be, there has been gambling, and plenty of it whenever any one so inclined wanted to indulge in that sort of pastime. But until the present time no one made serious objection to the games in a legal way, so they were not broken up. Today, however, when Edwin Beach emerged from A. E. Trobridge's saloon on West Fourth street, and was free to say to those with whom he was in conversation, that he had been defberately robbed on the inside it did not take long for the rumor to become street goessp. GROUND TO PIECES.

The tramp who was killed late Tuesday afternoon just this side of Anaheim by being run over by a freight train, has been identified by papers found in his clothes to be Robert Hooper of New York city, the son of B. Frank Hooper, president of the Colwell Lead Company, a large financial institution of the great metropol's. Young Hooper was ground into a thousand pieces almost, his body being strewn up and down the track for at least five hundred feet. Coroner by visited the scene of the accident again today and gathered up the remaining portions of the remains in a barley sack and took them to Anaheim. His tongue was picked up on the outside of the rails and portions of his skull and intestines, grimy with dust and dirt, were strewn for several hundred yards over the tles. The whole length of the train passed over him. It was ascertained at the inquest that he had been in Santa Ana and Orange, and that while he was tramping over the country he seemed to be possessed of good manners and to be above the ordinary professional "hobo." His father has been telegraphed, but as yet no answer has been received from him.

A Bible for the Duchess of York.

(Illustrated London News:) The Young Woman's Christian Association of the United Kingdom has presented to the Duchess of York a Bible and casket, with a book containing the names and addresses of all the subscribers, and a book-marker gibbon, as its wedding gift to Her Royal Highness, who graciously accepted this token of loyal affection. The Bible is a copy of Bagster's miniature quarto edition, with references, notes, maps and charts. Its binding, in the style of the end of the fifteenth century, is of royal purple morocco, inlaid with rich diaper, crimson and cream; it is adorned with ecclesiastical emblems embossed in gold, and, with the clasps, the monogram "V. M." and the coronet are of gold, plerced and engraved. The edges of the volume are illuminated in front with the monogram and coronet, and on a scroll, above and beneath, are the sentences: "Search the Scripture," "Thy Word is Truth," "God is Love," and "God is Light," and "Be Watchful." "Be Zealous." There are richly illuminated vellum pages, bearing the record of the eddecation. The casket to hold this volume is of carved British oak. The Right to Vote.

The Right te Vote.

(Bishop Keane in Donahoe's for May:)
The more I look into the social condition of mankind, the more I am convinced that the lower classes, as they are called, if only blessed with proper educational and religious influences, are quite competent to judge concerning their own interests; nay, are better fitted to judge of them than those who, being in higher classes, come little in contact with their needs, and have but little sympathy for them. And if they are the best fitted to judge concerning their own interests, it seems to me a matter of common equity that they should have a voice in the administration of the government which has to provide for those interests. I do not believe that political corruption exists among them in greater proportion than among the higher classes, to whom no one will think of denying the suffrage.

President Goodcell occupied the chair and the meeting proceeded to plan for the work to be done in the way of street decorations.

have decided to hold the fair this year at some time about the last of August upon such dates as will not interfere with the Southern circuit. They have secured a decision from Atty.-Gen. Hart to the effect that the appropriation is made for two years, and none of it will lapse if used for fair purposes within the two years, but not more than half the sum may be used the first year. This will give the two years' appropriation for the one fair, or a sum of $4500 to begin with. The fair will probably be held in San Bernardino, as the races are to be held in connection with it, and the use of the pavillon will be given gratis in this city. Miss White Found Near Glendora After an Ail-night Search.

POMONA, May 9.—(Special Correspondence.) A general feeling of both relief and graitude came over this entire community when it was announced this morning that an all-night search had finally been crowned with success in the finding at about 4:30 a.m. at the residence of a Mr. Cole near Glendora the missing Pomona young lady, Miss Alice White, who had arrived there late in the afternoon in an exhausted condition, after dence of a Mr. Cole near Glendora the missing Pomona young lady, Miss Alice White, who had arrived there late in the afternoon in an exhausted condition, after the trying ordeal of such a long and heavy bicycle ride, and that, too, in her weakened condition from a rather continued sickness.

As she was riding a machine having a deeply corrugated rubber tire four distinct indentations were made in its track along the course taken by her, which was finally discovered by her brother and one party in the outskirts of town as it turned down on the old county road toward Lordsburg, and this clew was carefully and patiently, by the ald of lanterns, traced and followed up along roads byways, across lots and in paths until, as above stated, success crowned the efforts of Marshal Lorbeer, Constable Slanker and the members of the party accompanying the brother, Frank White. The latter remained with his sister until she could get the proper rest and preparations made for suitable conveyance home, the others leaving for Pomona by the early Santa Fe or other modes of conveyance as best suited. This makes the fourth "lost" within the past few years that created a widespread and anxious local suspense to hear the finale—the other three being that of Charley Ward, a typo, who was lost in the marshes on Chino ranch, after a day's hunting, during a very heavy rainstorm in the late afternoon and night; the little boy of Mr. and Mrs. Gibson, finally found in a circus tent at San Bernardino, that previously visited Pomona, and the other a little girl on Holt avenue, who took the wrong direction late one afternoon.

In all these instances, which were attended with, more or less apprehension, Pomonans have demonstrated the fact that "humanity" has a tender and self-section late one afternoon.

In all these instance, as well as in the former ones, it is useless to say that the family feel grateful for such evidences of kindness and zealous interest as were shown by even the toughtless young of this community.

Meeting of Holders of "Class A" Certificates.

Vigorous Protest Against the Action of the Receivers in Trying to Raise the Water Rates-A Crisis Approaching.

REDLANDS, May 9 .- (Special Corres pondence.) Things are getting pretty near a focus in some particulars in Bear Valley matters, and one need not be surprised on hearing something drop at any time now. There was a meeting here yesterday of a number of large holders, individually, of Class or large noticers, individually, or class "A," Bear Valley water-right certificates and an explanation was demanded. The receivers, Messrs, Maginnis and Grages, were both present, and among the holders of Class "A" cerand an explanation was demanded. The receivers, Messrs. Maginnis and Grayes, waire both present, and among the holders of Class "A" certificates were H. L. Drew and H. M. Barton, of San Bernardino; I. L. Lyon, F. P. Morrison, H. Garland, H. L. Williams, Young, and representatives of the Barton tract. The cause of this controversy is the action of the receivers calling upon all holders of Class "A" certificates to pay an assessment of $2 each in addition to $1 per year, the rate at which water was to be delivered. Although the point at which water was to be delivered. Although the point at which water was to be delivered. Although the point at which water was to be delivered. Although the point at which water was to be delivered was at the sycamore tree near Mentone, upon the pipe line, permission was given the purchasers of Class "A" certificates to tap the main at other points without extra cost—in fact when Drew and others were going to go to the sycamore tree to seget their water the Bear Valley Land and Irrigation Company—the original company issuing the certificates—urged them to take the water at another point, and they, with others took it from the head of Cajon street. This was some seven years ago, and the holders of Class "A" certificates have been using the water all this time without any protest having been entered or any exactions were made, for larger fees. Now the new receivers have trebled the rate. They argue that the Class "A" men have had this water long enough to be deriving a good income from their places and ought to be willing to pay more for the water so that it will be easier for Class "B" men to meet their payments.

The holders of Class "A" certificates cannot see it that way and present good reasons for not complying with the demands of the receivers for an additional $2 above the $1 rate, under which the certificates were purchased. They say that the receivers for an additional $2 above the $1 rate, under which the certificates were purchased. They say that the receivers or the rece

On account of so many teachers being been the city attending the convention of school superintendents at Sacramento, there will be no meeting of the County Educational Association Saturday. The local postal officials have received instructions to at once begin the issue of the new form of domestic money order and advice on the arrival of the forms, which are now looked for any day. The new system is much more complex than the old, and it is estimated that it will require at least three men to do the same work now performed by two.

The argument in the case of the United States vs. the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, an action to cancel the patents to several thousands of acres of land in this and adjoining counties, which has pending before Judge Ross in the United States Circuit Court for s days past, was concluded yesterday ing, and the matter was ordered finally submitted upon briefs to be filed in twenty and thirty days, respectively.

ALMOST A MURDER.

Negro Woman Assaulted by Her Paramour.

ashed With a Knife and Finally Pushed Through a Second-story Window, Falling Twenty-five Feet.

She was found lying in the gutter on Los Angeles street near the corner Arcadia street in an unconscious adition by Sergt. Jeffries of the police force, by whom she was conveyed to the hospital in the patrol wagon. After Police Surgeon Bryant had at tended to the woman's injuries she re-covered consciousness and stated that covered consciousness and stated that about noon her paramour, John Williams, entered her room upon the second floor of the Jeannette block, and, after some words, in a fit of jealous rage, drew a dirk and attacked her with it. Fearing that he would carry out his threat to kill her the woman grabbed his arm and a fearful struggle ensued. Finally, however, she became weak from loss of blood, which flowed freely from the wounds in her shoulder, and her cowardly assallant, taking advantage of the fact that her back was against the window sash, gave der, and her cowardly assallant, taking advantage of the fact that her back was against the window sash, gave her a sudden push. The framework giving away she fell through the window to the roof of a shed, some distance below, thence she rolled to the ground. Beyond the fact that she was pushed through the window she knew nothing until she found herself in the hospital.

The police, upon hearing the woman's story, made an immediate investigation, as the result of which it was discovered that Williams had been seen to enter the woman's room about 11:30 o'clock and was last noticed running up Sanchez street toward Sonoratown shortly after the woman fell. An inspection of the room confirmed the woman's statement, blood being found on the ficor and windowsill, while the disordered condition of the furniture showed beyond a doubt that a struggle had taken place.

As Williams is a notorious character it was confidently expected by the police that he would be found at short notice, but up to the hour of going to pres he had successfully eluded the officers and no clew as to his whereabouts had been obtained.

The injured woman was resting comparatively easy at 2 o'clock this morning and Dr. Bryant is confident of his ability to pull her through in spite of her many serious injuries and the terrible shock she sustained.

Clara Clesby is the same woman for whom Rube Daniels, a negro gambler and tough, is now serving a term in San Quentin. Deniels became jealous of the woman, and, in order to get revenge, set fre to her clothing, for which he was tried and convicted.
